International and Global Studies Minor

Africa Paths

Are you planning an IQP in Africa? Then consider an International and Global Studies minor with an “Africa track.”

An IQP at Namibia, South Africa or Morocco and three courses from the humanities and arts or social science requirements may count towards the minor. Double-counted courses may be counted anywhere across the International and Global Studies “core” or “electives.” Students must take the senior seminar (INTL 4100) and two other courses for this minor that do not count for another degree requirement.

Here are several examples of an Africa track. These are merely examples and the courses you choose could be different.

1 unit International and Global Core
   INTL 2100 Approaches to Global Studies
   HU 2441 African History and Culture
   INTL 4100 Senior Seminar in International and Global Studies

1 unit International and Global Electives (Humanities, Social Science or Business courses)
   ENV 2600 Environmental Problems in the Developing World
   GOV 2319 Global Environmental Politics
   HI 2403 Global Environmental History

IQP at Namibia or South Africa

OR:

1 unit International and Global Core
   INTL 1100 Introduction to International and Global Studies
   INTL 2900 Topics in Global Studies
   INTL 4100 Senior Seminar in International and Global Studies

1 unit International and Global Electives (Humanities, Social Science or Business courses)
   AB 2542 The Culture of Arabic-Speaking Countries
   HI 2341 Contemporary World Issues in Historical Perspective
   ID 2050 Social Science Research for the IQP

IQP or Humanities and Arts Project at Morocco

The “Africa track” is a sample program that demonstrates how students with experience in Africa may shape the minor to meet their goals. You don’t need to follow a “track” to do the minor. For further information about the program, consult: http://www.wpi.edu/+IN.
