ABSTRACT:

These are records of WPI's seventh president, Wat Tyler Cluverius. They include biographical materials, correspondence, and related materials.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE:

Wat Tyler Cluverius was born December 25, 1874, in New Orleans, Louisiana. In 1892 he received an appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, from which he graduated four years later. During the Spanish-American War, he served on the gunboat Scorpion in the Cuban campaign and in the Philippines. After this, he returned to the Naval Academy as an instructor. When the Mexican campaign began in 1914, he was assigned to command the U.S.S. North Dakota's landing battalion in taking Vera Cruz. After this, he returned to the Naval Academy as head of the engineering department.

During World War I, Captain Cluverius was commanding officer of the U.S.S. Shawmut, which engaged in mine-laying operations in the North Sea. After the war, he returned to Annapolis and then commanded the cruiser Seattle, the battleship West Virginia, and other fleet units. He became Chief of Staff of the United States Fleet in 1930, and later was Commandant of the Norfolk Navy Yard, commander of the second and fourth battleship divisions of the United States Fleet, and Commandant of the Ninth Naval District at the Great Lakes, Illinois, and of the Fourth Naval District and Navy Yard at Philadelphia.

He retired as an Admiral from the Navy in 1938, after receiving the Distinguished Service Medal and honors from several European countries.

Wat Tyler Cluverius married Hannah Walker Sampson, daughter of Admiral William T. Sampson, in 1900. They had two daughters and a son. Mrs. Cluverius died in 1938.

Admiral Cluverius became WPI's seventh President in 1939, succeeding Ralph Earle, who had been a classmate and friend at the Naval Academy. Expansion of the campus was one of the President's priorities, and Alden Memorial and Earle Bridge were completed early in his tenure, and soon after Higgins Laboratories for Mechanical Engineering was built.

During World War II, largely through President Cluverius's efforts, the Navy's V-12 program came to WPI, bringing students from other schools as well as training WPI students in the program. All WPI's V-12 graduates received commissions in the Naval Reserve. President Cluverius served again with the Navy during the war, first with the Navy's Office of Public Information and later with the Naval Board of Production Awards. After the war, a Reserve Officers Training Corps was established at WPI.

After the war, President Cluverius began studies of "Tech's" academic programs. He led the effort to provide a building for the Civil Engineering Department, Kaven Hall. The 1947-48 Endowment Fund Campaign, under his leadership, raised over $1,200,000 in a few months. President Cluverius's building plans included an extension of Salisbury Laboratories, remodeling of Boynton Hall and Atwater Kent Laboratories, building another field house, campus lighting and general repairs.

President Cluverius oversaw, along with industrial leaders, establishment of the School of Management in 1949.

On October 28, 1952, President Cluverius died suddenly of a heart attack while returning from a trip to Philadelphia. In the WPI Journal's tribute to him of November that year, is the following: "Underlying a native dignity and aplomb was a dynamic personality, a tremendous vitality, an incredible zest for work and accomplishment, and an enthusiasm that swept others along with him."

[Note: information for this biographical sketch was taken from two WPI Journals: Vol. 42, No. 6, July 1939, and Vol. 56, No. 2, November 1952; and Two Towers, by Mildred Tymeson.] ]
