Animal Attraction

Group Size
Small, Medium, Large

Estimated Time
5-10 Minutes

Materials Needed
- One prepared gummed label for each participant
- Pen or felt tipped marker

Instructions
1. Mark the gummed labels, one for each participant with the name of a different animal. The labels should be created in pairs, for example, make two labels that say giraffe, two that say elephant, and two that say rabbit and so forth. (If there is an odd number of participants make three labels for one kind of animal)
2. Place one label on the back of each participant
3. Explain that each participant is to try to find out who he or she is by asking questions of others. A player may ask only one question of each participant, and the question must be phrased so that it can be answered by yes or no. As players discover their designated animals, they are to form a line, in order according to the height of the animal. As each player enters the line he or she is to find the appropriate animal partner and stand face to face.
4. Signal for the activity to begin. When all the animals have been identified and lined up, instruct each pair to spend one minute getting to know one another.
