Do you know what engineers do?

Electrical, computer, and mechanical engineers are designing interactive toys for disabled children… biomedical engineers are creating artificial limbs and organs that improve or save lives… environmental engineers are keeping our water clean and safe… aerospace engineers are designing spacecrafts to explore the universe. It’s impossible to go through a single day without using something an engineer has helped create.

If you are curious about whether or not engineering is for you, what it’s like to study engineering, or what you can do with a career in engineering, come join us at the WPI Campus Center for IGNITE (Interest Girls Now in Technology and Engineering).

About the Program
This program is a fun introduction into engineering and related fields. You’ll tour the WPI campus and interact with current female engineering students, watch demonstrations by our robotics team, see cutting-edge research being conducted in our labs, hear from women in various fields about what it’s like to be an engineer, and get a behind-the-scenes look at life as student at WPI. In addition, there will be an opportunity for your parents/guardians to hear about the college admissions process.

Who should attend?
Young women who are in grades 9, 10, or 11 and their parents/guardians/teachers who would like to find out more about engineering and related fields.
